

6月7日

This lesson we revised the time words that we'd looked at the previous week.

Using the sheets below the task was to translate the Chinese into English and the English into Chinese. The two sheets were the opposite of each other so that, having tried out the task, you could correct it. I have, I hope, corrected the errors in the original.

These time words take a lot of practice; it's easy to jumble up different ways to say 'next' and 'last' for example.

In this song by Transition you can easily learn the vocab for 'this evening'.

New vocab: 别的 = bie2de = other

今天晚上我不要在别的地方

Literally:

Today evening I don't want to be located other place

ie: This evening I don't want to be anywhere else

If that's all you get from the song, that's great. The rest isn't so important but the lyrics are below and here's the link. (It starts in English but doesn't stay there). <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ScKz47gIKSM>

作业

Finish the translation sheet and use the opposite one to check your work. It's up to you, when translating from English, whether to put the translation in pinyin or characters but if you use pinyin ALWAYS add tone marks.
